OPEN DISCUSSION-

+ No Open Discussion

Brag for a Buck

+ Patti Powers bragged that her husband Dakota has set up an obstacle course in their arena. He put in a new obstacle that makes lots of noise when it is being pulled/dragged. She was leery that her horse would balk... but her horse did not! Grady, Dakota's horse saw Patti's horse maneuver the obstacle, and then he did too... with flying colors! WhooHoo!

+Janice Escalera bragged that the Tenaha Falls ride Sunday March 2 was beautiful. She relayed an incident that happened with Chuck's horse, Stu, who was usually calm and foolproof. Stu threw a huge tantrum while tied to the trailer. He was in between Janice and Henry's horses when he reared up and threw himself on the ground. He just laid there with the two horses on each side looking at him shocked at his behavior. Janice and Henry are also aghast at what they saw! Chuck said that he sometimes does that.....

50-50- Janice Escalera- the winning number belonged to Ken Zirges. The winning amount was $29.00!

HUMBOLDT REDWOODS STATE PARK

HUMBOLDT REDWOODS INTERPRETIVE ASSOCIATION | P.O. BOX 276 | WEOTT, CA 95571 | (707) 946-2263

Horseback Riding

Humboldt Redwoods State Park offers some of the most spectacular riding trails in the state, which makes the park quite popular with equestrians. People have been riding in the park since the early 1970s, and equestrians continue to enjoy this activity today. Unfortunately, the park does not have riding stables or offer guided trail rides.

Equestrians are welcome to ride on trails designated as hiking/equestrian as well as multi-use trails. Horse watering troughs are available at several locations along the park's trails.

Many equestrians begin their ride from Cuneo Creek Horse Camp, which offers access to several trails. Cuneo Creek offers horse camping as well as a day use area. Visitors can access Indian Orchard Trail or the Homestead Trail directly from Cuneo Creek. These trails offer connections to other trails in the park for a longer ride. See the trail map for more detailed information.

Other popular access points along Mattole Road include Grasshopper Multi-Use Trail, Look Prairie Multi-Use Trail, and Blue Slide day use area. The turnout adjacent to Grasshopper Multi-Use Trail and Blue Slide day use area offer ample parking for horse trailers.

Cuneo Creek Horse Camp

Cuneo Creek Horse Camp is reserved for park visitors who bring their horses to ride in the park. The park does not have riding stables or offer guided trail rides. Located on an old homestead on Mattole Road, eight miles west of the Avenue of the Giants, the campground has five family campsites and two group camps. The campground offers picnic tables, fire rings, bear lockers, treated water, flush toilets, coin-operated showers, and a mounting platform. There are 12'x12' metal pipe corrals, water troughs, tie rails, and a sand rolling pit for the horses.

Wheelbarrows are provided, but visitors should bring their own pitchforks, hoses, buckets, and other equipment.

Cuneo Creek offers two group camps that can accommodate up to 90 people. Site A has space for up to 65 people and 22 corrals and is $200 per night. Site B has space for up to 25 people and 12 corrals and is $135 per night. Limited space is available in both sites for additional temporary corrals provided by the visitor. Each site offers picnic tables, bear lockers, an oversize fire ring, and a group size barbeque grill. Group sites can be reserved individually or together. This campground is located in black bear country. All food and scented items must be stored inside a bear locker.

Campfire Programs

A visit to the park during the summer season would not be complete without attending a campfire program. Each night at dusk, visitors enjoy an educational and entertaining campfire program in one of the park's amphitheaters. These interpretive programs are offered nightly during the summer and are suitable for all ages. Interpretive schedules are posted throughout the park, and more information is available at the Visitor Center or from park staff. Weather

Humboldt Redwoods State Park is located in northern California in a temperate coastal climate. The park receives an average of 65" - 80" of rain per year with the majority of rainfall November through May. Summer is warm and dry with morning fog that usually burns off by noon. Temperatures are in the upper 70s to low 80s for the highs and the upper 50s to low 60s for lows.
